

Deltona Firefighters Go Pink

October 4, 2010— October 1st marked the first day that the Deltona Firefighters donned their pink fire t-shirts for the month of October. The pink shirts are the uniform of the month. Firefighters throughout the City are showing their support for women and their families that have been affected by cancer by wearing the pink tee shirts.

The campaign kicked off September 16th with a visit from four pink fire trucks from the Pink Heals Guardian of the Ribbon Tour. The trucks made stops at both City Hall and Fire Station 61 where citizens throughout the community arrived at the Fire Station to take pictures of the trucks as well as sign the trucks leaving messages of hope and remembrance. Fire house chefs also cooked up and served a few hundred barbeque meals with the money going to cancer charities. "For at least one month we want those who currently are battling, those who are survivors and family members of those who lost loved ones from cancer to realize that they are not alone and they are being thought of, loved and supported”, stated Kurt Vroman, President of the Deltona Firefighters Foundation. “This is a great way to show support for those afflicted with this deadly disease, raise awareness and money for cancer research and possibly find a cure for cancer in our lifetime”, said Chief Staples.

The Deltona Fire Fighters are also selling the pink tee shirts to help raise money for cancer awareness through the Deltona Fire Fighters Foundation. If you would like to purchase a shirt and help support this worthwhile cause, please visit their web site at Deltonafirefightersfoundation.org for ordering information. Orders will be placed each Friday through the month of October. The shirts cost $12.00 each plus shipping.
